Meditations . . .

“ . . . that you might have him back forever, no longer as a slave but . . . a brother.”
(Philemon 15-16)

Despite being one of the shortest books in the Bible, St. Paul’s Letter to Philemon still reveals the power of the gospel to change us. It had changed Paul so much that he viewed a runaway, criminal slave, Onesimus, as his own spiritual son, and it had changed this slave so much that he viewed himself as a beloved, forgiven man. Now Paul is inviting Onesimus’ owner, Philemon, to let the gospel change him.

While he was in prison, Paul evangelized Onesimus, who had run away from his owner and had come seeking Paul’s help. As they grew close, Paul came to view Onesimus as his spiritual “child” (Philemon 10). But he didn’t stop there. In today’s reading, Paul pleads with Onesimus’ owner, Philemon, to take him back.

Paul’s letter is clever and inviting but also direct. He says he could command Philemon based on his authority as an apostle, but he chooses a different tone: “I rather urge you out of love,” he writes (Philemon 9). He begs Philemon to see the spiritual reality of the situation, not just the legal reality. “Perhaps this is why he was away from you for a while, that you might have him back forever, no longer as a slave but more than a slave, a brother” (15-16).

This letter shows that the gospel is not just good news that announces our salvation—it changes us. Just as it did for Onesimus and Paul (and, hopefully, for Philemon), it lifts our hearts, it reconciles broken relationships, and it changes the way we treat one another.

During this Jubilee Year, let’s invite the Holy Spirit to show us how we can be transformed by the power of the gospel. Perhaps there is someone he will help you see differently—a boss, a family member, maybe even yourself!

“Thank you, Holy Spirit, for setting us free to see ourselves and others as you do.”

ON THE ASSUMPTION OF MARY
By: Pope Benedict XVI - Final

Consequently, we must not lose our serenity and peace even amid the thousands of daily difficulties. The luminous sign of Our Lady taken up into heaven shines out even more brightly when sad shadows of suffering and violence seem to loom on the horizon.

We may be sure of it: from on high Mary follows our footsteps with gentle concern, dispels the gloom in moments of darkness and distress, and reassures us with her motherly hand.

Supported by this awareness, let us continue confidently on our path of Christian commitment wherever Providence may lead us. Let us forge ahead in our lives under Mary’s guidance.
