Meditations . . .

*“Whoever has my commandments and observes them
is the one who loves me.”
(John 14:21)*

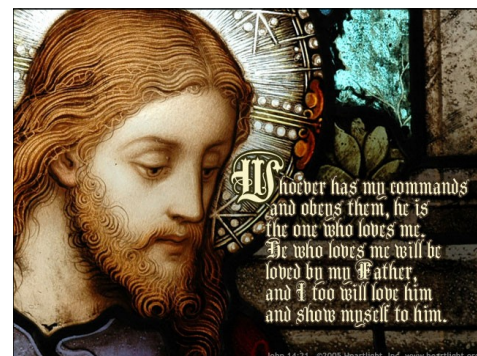

On the night before his crucifixion, Jesus gave his disciples two clear commandments. First, after having washed their feet, he told them to “wash one another’s feet” (John 13:14). Then he commanded them, “Love one another” (13:34). Now, in today’s Gospel, he says that whoever observes these commands to wash feet and show love is “the one who loves” him (14:21).

What a surprising combination! We can be so used to labeling, categorizing, and compartmentalizing aspects of our lives: our work life, our home life, our spiritual life, and the like. But Jesus is telling us that two seemingly unrelated areas belong together and depend on each other: loving him and loving one another. We can’t love him, he says, if we are not caring for the people around us. To say that we love the Lord while we are holding someone in contempt or harboring hatred against someone is to miss the point of his gospel message. It’s to miss the point of his cross.

This is a challenging message, but it’s also good news. The idea of loving Jesus—the eternal Son of God who dwells in unapproachable glory—can seem overwhelming. How can we who are sinners ever love such a being? But Jesus assures us that it’s easier than we might think: “Whatever you did for one of these least brothers of mine,” he says, “you did for me” (Matthew 25:40). Every time we show love, mercy, compassion, or generosity to someone, we are showing it to Jesus. No act or gesture is too small. Jesus receives it as if it were given directly to him. Because, in a very real sense, it is!

Do you want to observe Jesus’ commandments? And do you want to love him more fully? The answer may be as close as the person sitting across the dinner table from you or the person down the street who needs a helping hand.

“Jesus, help me to love you more deeply by loving others more faithfully.”

THINGS THAT NEED TO BE SAID:

While we are extremely grateful and appreciative to those in our parish who have recently made monetary contributions for the repairs needed for our church buildings, there are a few things we must share. Firstly, we will be posting weekly updates on the amount of monies which have been donated for the repairs. Second: We must not put off doing the necessary repairs to our parish facilities. At all times, we must put our best foot forward, and we fell short the week when the Bishop came to celebrate our 2026 Confirmation. His brief inspection of our church building, resulted in a polite scolding to do the repairs for our Church doors. This has not been new to us. It’s just that no one has taken the initiative to promptly take care of this matter. This is work that can be easily done by those skilled parishioners in our church. Please come forward to handle this matter, as soon as possible. In all cases, it takes a ‘village’ for a parish to function properly. God bless you for what you do for our parish.
